Annwyl Bawb / Dear All

E-BULLETIN 44 – 4 MAY 2010

Apologies for letting so much time pass without sending out a proper e-bulletin, but it's been very busy here lately, especially with our birthday celebrations! Many thanks to everyone who supported the weekend in some way, either by taking part, by helping out or by attending the events. It was great to see the Morlan buzzing with activity during the three days.

The celebrations continue since the exhibition Celebrate by Plas Lluest artists will be here until 16 May. Through their own individual interpretation and from a variety of viewpoints, the artists invite us to explore how we celebrate and what we celebrate with. The result is an interesting and exciting collection of artwork that considers how sound, food, objects and places are used for human celebration.

Morlan has two events on during the next fortnight:

INTO MY OWN

2.30, Monday, 13 May

Hijinx Theatre return to the Morlan with another play by Glenys Evans. Anne and Mum live together, they look after each other. Their lives are safe and comfortable, but Anne's world is turned upside down when her Mum is rushed to hospital. Into My Own is a story for everyone – about families and friendships, stepping into the unknown – but has particular relevance to people with learning disabilities. Tickets (available from the Morlan): £6 (£4 concession). Organised with assistance from the Night Out scheme.

THE GOSPEL OF THE LOST ANGEL

7.00, Wednesday, 19 May

A talk (in Welsh) by Rev. Geraint ap Iorweth. Part of Morlan's Dweud ei Ddweud (Having his Say) evenings. Chair: Enid Morgan.

The other events taking place here during that time are noted below.
